Adam Thompson, Higher National Diploma in General Engineering Student at Selby College

"The College's role in the Institute of Technology has enabled myself and my course mates to be trained on indsutry standard equipment, which I wasn't familiar with before I joined Selby College. Now I know how automatics, pneumatics, power fluid and mechanisms work and have been able to introduce this knowledge into my day-to-day job. I can now recommend systems to my employer which has helped me develop and make improvements to the company I work for."
